1 Alleged breaches of discipline will be investigated in the first instance by the Head Porter.

2 Automatic fines as set out in the College Rules and elsewhere will be administered by the Head Porter.

3 Without derogation from the above provision, and in addition to the power conferred by that provision, the Head Porter shall have power to impose fines up to a maximum of £75. The Head Porter shall also have power to order appropriate forms of community service in lieu of, or in addition to, a fine. In all cases of punishments (other than automatic fines) imposed by the Head Porter, there shall be a right of appeal to the Dean, and students will be informed of that right.

4 The Dean may deal with disciplinary infractions himself, or may at any stage refer the matter to the Disciplinary Committee. Matters may also be referred to the Disciplinary Committee by the Senior Tutor or Tutor for Advanced Students.

5 There shall be no right of appeal to the Disciplinary Committee from the Dean’s decision; but in appropriate cases, matters that have been decided by the Dean may be referred to the Disciplinary Committee by the Dean or the Senior Tutor or Tutor for Advanced Students. The Disciplinary Committee may then review the entire matter and may confirm, annul or vary the Dean’s decision. Where a case has been referred to the Disciplinary Committee under this provision, the Disciplinary Committee may alter any penalty imposed by the Dean by reducing, increasing or otherwise varying that penalty.

6 Complaints concerning the operation of the College’s disciplinary procedures should be directed to the Senior Tutor or Tutor for Advanced Students.
